SWART BEFORE THE BAR ON CHARGE OF CONTEMPT OF COURT

Hearing Develops Features That Puzzle Judge Buck---Case Submitted On Affidavits

District Attorney Franklin Swart, who was cited for contempt by Judge Buck last week for disobeying an order of the superior court in connection with the Fair Oaks sanitary district election, was before the court on Thursday afternoon. Mr. Swart was represented by Maxwell McNutt and Edward McKenzie of San Francisco. The latter made a lengthy argument to the court, endeavoring to show that Mr. Swart was only technically in contempt, as no order was made. Mr. McNutt quoted numerous decisions to justify his contention.

Mr. Bullock addressed the court showing his connection with the case. He was only an attorney for the sanitary district in question and at the instance of the court prepared the affidavits before the court signed by the election officers of the Fair Oaks sanitary district, which set forth that the district attorney had told them to hold the election on March 7. Mr. Bullock then asked the court to appoint him amicus curiae, which it did, when Mr. Bullock then answered the argument of Mr. McNutt, holding that Mr. Swart did technically disobey the order of the court.

Judge Buck then made a lengthy statement going over the entire proceedings leading up to the contempt. He declared the board of supervisors was wrong in calling two elections for the formation of two sanitary districts. He declared the proceedings of the board to be irregular, thus nullifying the election of March 7. In the face of this the district attorney advised the election officers to hold the election.

If Mr. Swart had come before the court and admitted that he was wrong and apologized, nothing further would have been odne, but instead Mr. Swart comes into court and tries ti justify his position by argument. The judge recited that Dr. Westphal had come to him to acknowledge his error, apologizing and showing contrition for his disobedience to the order. He was given a clear bill. The doctor was one of the promoters of the proposed Fair Oaks sanitary district. Judge Buck declared he did not want to be harsh in the matter at bar, but felt that his orders should be obeyed.

Mr. Swart was then called to the stand. He declared that he loved the court and was willing at all times to obey its orders, but was not fully advised as to the proceedings, as he was not in court the afternoon that the order was made. On the morning of the election he was called up many times by the electiin officers. He told them that if there were a restraining order to obey it. He denied that he had told the officers to go on with the election.

This explanation puzzled the court and he ordered the matter submitted on the affidavits filed by the election officers.

Last week the three election officers who attempted to hold the election were arrested for contempt and each fined $50.

GUS WALLER GETS CONTRACT TO BUILD NEW CHURCH

The trustees of the Redwood City Congregational church opened bids for construction of the new church Saturday and awarded the contract to Gus Waller of this city, whose bid was $30,666. There were three other bids, the highest of which was $32,-580. Contracts for the heating plant, wiring and electrical fixtures will be let later. The new church will be built on the corner of Jefferson avenue and Webster street. It will be of tapestry brick, which will present a fine appearance. The main auditorium will be on the Jefferson street side, while the Sunday school rooms wil be on Webster street. W. H. Toepke of San Mateo is the architect of the structure.

DEATH OF MRS. EDGAR

Mrs. Mary Jane Edgar, widow of the late John C. Edgar, passed away at the home of her son, Joseph S. Edgar in San Francisco Wednesday. Mrs. Edgar was well known in Redwood City, having passed her girlhood and much of her married life here. Mrs. Edgar was the widow of John C. Edgar, who served San Mateo county as sheriff and deputy sheriff and the town of Redwood City as marshal many years ago. When the late J. C. Ames was appointed warden of the San Quentin prison he took Johnnie Edgar with him as his captain of the guards and he served in various capacities in the state penitentiary until a short time before his death. Edgar was a power in Republican politics in the olden days.

Besides her son, Joseph, Mrs. Edgar is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sarah E. Williston of San Jose and Mrs. Belle van Doren of New York. The funeral will be held this afternoon and the interment will be in Cypress Lawn cemetery at 2 o'clock.

Who remembers the old-time girl who gazed all around to see if any men were looking at her before she raised her skirts to board a street car?

Facts About Elephants That Are Not Known to the General Public

A real wild animal is coming to town. Howe's great London circus with Van Amberg's trained wild animals, a big four ring zoological paradise, will positively exhibit, rain or shine, at Redwood City on Thursday, March 23, with afternoon and evening performances.

Surely this will afford a great opportunity to study animal life. One of the most interesting sights at the circus grounds is to watch the elephants while at work pushing the heavy wagons and dens in position. They use their weight as cleverly as an athlete and squeal loudly in disgust when the weight calls for any great effort of strength, for he is of a naturally lazy disposition. Imagine, if you can, the capture of these animals, when sometimes herds of 200 or 300 are driven from their jungle feeding places by natives mounted upon tamed elephants. Finally the surging, trumpeting herd is pressed forward until they reach a massive stockade, when ensues a scene that is utterly impossible to describe, as the herders enter and capture with long ropes those that they wish to tame.

Crying pitifully and trumpeting voefferously they fall, while others frightened and enraged kill and trample to death their fellows. Huge creatures which at full stature stand twice or more the height of an average man, weighing from 8,000 to 10,000 pounds, carrying tusks, a pair of which have been known to exceed 300 pounds in weight; whose feet measure 180 inches in circumference; who can shuffle through the forest jungles faster than an athlete can sprint on a cinder track; who has been known to swim for nine hours in one lay; who can toss the huge tiger thirty feet in the air; who can knock down large trees by the mere impact of the charge; whose ears detect the faintest sounds; whose eyes, though relatively small, never miss the most cautious movement; who never forgets a friend or forgives an enemy; who could singly and alone rout hundreds of his captors, yet trembles and has been known to drop dead from fright at sight of a mere mouse! Elephant hunting is the favorite sport of Siam, the novelty of which causes bull fighting, lion hunting or other pastimes of that nature to sink into secondary significance.

CHRISTIE WINS LIBEL SUIT AGAINST HELMORE

The jury that tried the libel case of Edgar D. Christie against George A. Helmore, editor of the San Bruno Herald and Peninsula News, brought in a verdict Wednesday against the defendant, awarding the sum of $400 to the plaintiff. The suit was for $10,000.

On March 12, 1921, Helmore published an article in his paper regarding the arrest of a man named C. D. Christie in San Francisco for driving an automobile while intoxicated, stating that a man had suffered a fractured skull from being struck by Christie's machine. Edgar D. Christie, a resident of San Bruno, alleges that the article was intended to refer to him and was published with the deliberate intent of injuring him in the community in which he resided.

Christie is represented by A. P. Black of San Francisco, while Swart & Machado of Redwood City represent the defense.

YOUNG SHORTRIDGE ENTERS PRIVATE PRACTICE

Samuel M. Shortridge, Jr., who was recently admitted to practice law in the state by the appellate court, has resigned as legal adviser to the federal prohibition director for California and hereafter will specialize in the practice of federal law. He has formed a copartnership with Claude I. Parker, internal revenue collector under the former Republican administration at Los Angeles, and Roy L. Daily, formerly United States assistant attorney general.

Both men are experts in their respective lines and lawyers of ability. Mr. Shortridge will be associated with them in federal practice.

The firm has established an elaborately fitted set of offices in the Crocker building in San Francisco. By a strange coincidence the offices are the same as occupied by Senator Shortridge before the fire.

The firm is to have offices in Denver, Nevada, Washington and other localities. Mr. Shortridge will visit Washington this summer to familiarize himself with the departments and the procedure in vogue there. During his incumbency as adviser to the prohibition director he has secured valuable experience in prohibition law which will be of aid to him in his new work. The firm name will be Parker, Shortridge & Daily.

SPLENDID PROPOSITION ON BIG INDUSTRIAL TRACT

Lambert & Walter are offering to residents of Redwood City an opportunity to acquire 145 acres of industrial property known as the Sweeney-Pescia tract for $275 an acre if they act quickly.

The option on the land will be taken up Monday morning and all Redwood City citizens will lose an excellent opportunity to acquire industrial property unless they act by Sunday, according to the realty men.

The land has never been offered for sale at less than $800 an acre. Present circumstances enable Redwood City citizens to acquire it at $275 an acre and hold it for those who often come here looking for industrial sites.

A complete description of the property is contained in an advertisement on another page of the Times-Gazette today. Lambert & Walter are willing to arrange the financing of the property if half the money is put up.

It is proposed to form a stock company with stock at $100 a share. To those who subscribe for stock and pay down half of the amount asked per share, Lambert & Walter will loan the remainder of the money.

Lambert & Walter wish to make the industrial property a community project. Four hundred persons at $100 each can handle the entire proposition, 10 per cent of the population of the city.

Many substantial Redwood City business men are behind the deal. Their names are contained in the advertisement.

San Francisco capitalists want the land. If residents of Redwood City do not subscribe for the stock some time Sunday the land will probably be sold to outside capital early Monday.

The realty men have arranged to have automobiles at their office Sunday morning. All those desiring to inspect the site will be given an opportunity.

Lambert & Walter believe the land to be a good investment whether industries locate upon it immediately or not. A booklet is being prepared in which it will be fully described to those looking for industrial sites.

SHAMROCKS SENT REDWOOD CITY FROM THE LAND OF ST. PATRICK

Thomas Tuite and D. F. Foley Tell of Conditions in Ireland During Transition Period

Thomas Tuite, the former Redwood City butcher, has written his old friend, Mrs. John Kearse, telling her of the conditoins in Ireland. Mr. Tuite went to the old country nearly two years ago accompanied by his family. His letter does not state when he will return to Redwood City, but it is believed he will leave Ireland during the summer for home. His communication is as follows:

Mrs. Kearse: We are sending you a small spray of the chosen leaf (shamrock), not from where we used to call the old country but from new Ireland now known as the "Free State."

We may well call it the new country when one looks around and sees the many changes, too numerous to mention. One of the greatest transformations we note is to see our gallant little (I R A) sending out John Bull and his large army as did St. Patrick banish the snakes long ago.

Both no longer linger on our fair soil that was dedicated to noble purposes by the blood of Irishmen. How is the general feeling toward the "Free State" in America? I feel certain that my countrymen are rejoicing over the splendid outlook for the old land. Peace, prosperity and happiness are to be enjoyed by the people under the new regime. "Ireland a Nation Once Again" is being sung by the sons and daughters of Ireland all over the world. The people here enjoy their freedom as a canary freed from its prison cage would.

We did not visit your part of Ireland (County Clare) yet but hope to very soon and before we sail for the "Land of the Free hearts Hope and Home."

All the children are enjoying the green hills and flower covered valleys of Erin. Respectfully yours,

THOMAS TUITE.

Foley Gives Facts on Peace Treaty

P. J. Foley of this city this week received a letter from his brother, D. F. Foley, a former resident of Redwood City, now residing in his boyhood home in Cork, Ireland. Mr. Foley lived here over twenty years ago, leaving for Alaska during the gold excitement. He made a fortune in the gold fields and some years ago went to the old country to spend the remainder of his years in the home of his youth. His intelligent discussion of Irish affairs will be read with interest by every Irishman in San Mateo county. It is first hand news of New Ireland. The letter is as follows:

Ireland at present possesses two governments—Dail Eireann and the provisional. The former came into being in 1916 when the Irish rebelled against English rule and formed an Irish republic. The republic organized and carried on a guerilla warfare (which has left its indelible stigma on the public abhorrence) until the truce was called by the English and Irish governments. Plenipotentiaries were named and met in London and signed a treaty between the two governments after months of strenuous labor. Those articles of treaty are a matter of history and speak for themselves and were as stipulated by Dail Eireann.

Now comes De Valera with a moderate minority following and says the treaty is not what the people want. Yet every bishop in Ireland and 90 per cent of the clergy and the people of Ireland through their representative bodies have approved the treaty and are willing to abide by its terms. The opponents base their claims and strength in the fact that the volunteers during the years of struggle have taken an oath of allegiance to that republic and their officers are now holding them to that allegiance whether they approve the treaty or not; 80 per cent of those volunteers were recruited from the arnks of small farmers' sons. On this volunteer army the country has to depend for the maintenance of law and order during the transition period. So you can see the I. R. A. are in a position where they are to serve conflicting authorities, namely, the opponents and defenders of the treaty, during the coming election. Many of those volunteers whom I have personally interviewed in Bandon, Cork and Kilkenny, where I spent two months, heartily approve the terms of the treaty, but if they get orders to oppose they must use every means in their power to defeat it. Yet notwithstanding this double crossfire the nominees of the treaty will be elected by a sweeping majority throughout the length and breadth of the land.

I see by some American papers that Dr. De Valera still has a moderate following in the states where the people do not understand the changed or true condition on this side. Up to the present De Valera has had no greater admirer than myself. But when I see what his policy will result in I cannot follow his leadership any more, especially when I see him in his intense patriotism, ideals and love of country striving to trample and stamp upon the very essence and substance of liberty, freedom and prosperity in his insatiable desire to grasp at the ever beeting and disappearing shadow of his pet hobby—a Royal Irish Independent Republic. Do not infer from this that Collins and Griffith are not equally patriotic. They are in fact more so: But they do not want to throw their country back into war again and have 150,000 black and tans turned loose again to loot, burn, sack and destroy the towns and the homes of the people. What the treaty means to the people of Ireland is liberty, peace, happiness and prosperity on the side of acceptance. On the opposite side or rejection is war in all its horrors, extermination, misery, starvation and cruelty.

Which do you prefer?

D. F. FOLEY.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CAMPAIGN COMING TO SUCCESSFUL CLOSE

American City Bureau Will Bring Follow-Up Worker to Mop Up After Team

George Everson has been selected by the American City Bureau as the man to carry on the reorganization of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce after the departure of the campaign crew which has been on the job here for the past four weeks.

Everson is one of the American City Bureau's follow-up men. It is his duty to help in the reorganization of the chamber of commerce after the campaign for members and a service fund has been completed.

He will arrive in Redwood City on Monday and will immediately begin his duties. An election will first be held. This will be accomplished through the mails, making everyone's vote secret. A new set of by-laws wil be formulated, discussed and adopted, after which a members' forum will be organized and the first work done on a program of actual work. In the meantime an effort will be made to find out what sort of community work each member is interested in. The membbers will be divided into various sections and the work apportioned.

200 at the Banquet

The civic banquet of last Monday night, at which 200 Redwood City citizens were in attendance, came as an anti-climax to the membership campaign. The dinner, which was cooked and served by Redwood City firemen, was a great success. It was dubbed a "Dinty Moore" feed because it consisted of corned beef and cabbage. Everyone seemed to enjoy it. The firemen are entitled to a great deal of credit for their efficiency. The program of entertainment could hardly have been improved. Every number was enjoyable. Little Miss Dottie Jewell sang "Peggy O'Neil" and had to respond to an encore.

The Lamb sisters, Mildred and Hazel, gave two delightful numbers which by no means satisfied their audience. They responded a third time with "The End of a Perfect Day." The young women are leaving in a few days for a tour of the Orpheum circuit.

A playlet called "75 to 7," which was written by Mrs. Alice Hand, and another called "Our Town," written and directed by Miss Catherine J. Boyle and acted by high school girls, were both heartily received.

C. M. Doxsee acted as toastmaster and he made a good one. Many laughs followed his stories, all of them appropriate. The principal address of the evening was given by J. D. Allen of San Francisco. His community idealism made itself felt.

This week wil complete the drive for funds and members. As already stated, the reorganization process will follow.

MULCAHY WILL CASE

John A. Percy, executor of the last will and testament of Richard E. Mulcahy, deceased, also attorney for the estate, was cited to appear in court some time ago by Mrs. Mulcahy and show cause why he should not be removed as executor. She complained that he had not filed his inventory and appraisement of the estate. Mr. Percy was in court on Thursday and in a brief statement cleared up the whole matter. He said that when Mr. Mulcahy died in August last year, Mrs. Mulcahy believed that the estate was exceedingly large, when it was not. He had made an investigation and found this to be so. Mrs. Mulcahy believed there was a large sum due from E. F. Hutton & Co., of which concern he was a member, but on the contrary the deceased owed the company money. Mrs. Mulcahy recently went to New York and learned the true value of the estate and has presented the facts. Mr. Percy said the inventory would be filed in a few days. The order to show cause was then dropped.

CHARLES McCRACKEN IS UP FOR ASSEMBLYMAN

Edward H. Hamilton, one of the ablest political writers of the Pacific coast, whose interesting column in the Examiner is always read with interest by all politicians, contained a mention yesterday which is of interest to the people of Redwood City. The Mr. McCracken referred to is an overseas man in the garage business on Broadway. Hamilton says:

"There is some political stir in San Mateo county. An effort is being made to get some American Legion man into the fight against Assemblyman Frank Eksward, and Charles been urged to try for the nomination. been urged to try forthenomination. City Attorney Charles N. Kirkbride of San Mateo has also been mentioned for the place. Samuel M. Shortridge, Jr., has postively refused to allow the use of his name in the contest, as he says he is out of politics."

A JAR FOR JUDGES

The alimony question is a puzzle to a good many lawyers and judges. In every state the judges assume to rule as they please in the matter, making their decisions to fit each particular case as seems right to them. Many a judge has ruled that a childless woman in good health securing a divorce from her husband is entitled to no further support from the man she married. Some judges have even stated that it bad public policy for a healthy woman to be drawing money from a man and rendering no service whatever in return. Such judges may be surpised to know that the supreme court of the United States has ruled differently.

The case came up from the United States district court at Cincinnati about fifteen years ago. The wife had secured a divorce and award of alimony in the state courts from her husband, a hotel man. He paid under protest, then began a series of attempts to evade the court order. He lost out in the state courts. As a final effort he went into bankruptcy. Then he entered the plea that the proceedings in that particular wiped out all obligations, including the alimony award. The wife was quite a determined woman. She carried the case to the highest court in the country and won. The decision of the court was that when a man marries he undertakes to support his wife for the balance of her natural life; that the contract thus entered into freely is one that cannot be set aside by any court proceedings, not even by bankruptcy. In other words, if the courts will follow the judgment of the highest authority, they must award alimony in every case where it is demanded, as the woman has the right to be supported by the man to whom she was married. It is probable a good many judges have never learned of this decision, so they go right on refusing to give to divorcees the alimony to which they are entitled by law.

ROOSEVELT ON FORD

Col. Theodore Roosevelt's opinion of the relative merits of Truman H. Newberry and Henry Ford as senatorial candidates is shown in a letter Roosevelt wrote to Newberry in October, 1918. It read in part as follows:

"My dear Commander: I congratulate you on your nomination, but far more do I congratulate Michigan and all our people. It was my good fortune to have you serve under me as secretary of the navy, and I can testify personally to your efficiency and your disinterested and single-minded zeal for the public service. To a very peculiar degree you have stood for that kind of government which puts the interest of the people as a whole first and foremost, and treats all other considerations as negligible when the public weal is involved. The record made by you and your two sons in this war is typical of your whole attitude as a public servant. Both your boys at once entered the navy and are now on the high seas. You sought employment abroad; when that was refused you you accepted any poistion that was offered in which you could render public service.

"The nomination of Mr. Ford makes the issue sharp and clean. It is not primarily ap issue between the Republican party and the Democratic party, for Mr. Ford does not seem to have any firm political convictions and was content to take the nomination on any ticket without regard to what the general principles of the men supporting that ticket were, and his memory about past politics is so hazy that although he has mentioned a Republican candidate for president for whom he thinks he once voted, it does not appear that this is posible, unless he is in error as to his own age.

"The issue is infinitely more important than any merely political issue. It is the issue of straight Americanism, of straight patriotism and of preparedness for the tasks of peace and war, as against a particularly foolish and obnoxious type of pacifism preached in peace and practiced in war. This is the first time in the history of our country in which a candidate for high office has been nominated who has spent enormous sums of money in demoralizing the people of the United States on a matter of vital interest to their honor and welfare. The expenditures on behalf of pacifism by Mr. Ford in connection with the peace ship and in connection with his great advertising campaign in favor of the McLemore resolution and of the pacivst and pro-German attitude opposing our participation in the war, was as thoroughly demoralizing to the conscience of the American people as anything that has ever taken place. The failure of Mr. Ford's son to go into the army at this time and the approval by the father of the son's refusal, represent exactly what might be expected from the moral disintegration inevitably produced by such pacifist propaganda. Your two sons have eagerly gone to the front. They stand ready to pay with their lives for the honor and the interest of the American people, and while they thus serve America with fine indifference to all personal cost, the son of the wealthy Mr. Ford sits at home in ignoble safety and his father defends and advises such conduct!

"Michigan is facing the test, clear cut and without a shadow of a chance for misundertsanding, between patriotism and Americanism on one side and on the other pacifism and that foolish sham cosmopolitanism which thinks it clever to deride the American flag and to proclaim that it would as soon be a Hindu or a Chinaman as an American. If there should be at any time in the future a Hindu senate and it should choose, in a spirit of cosmopolitanism, to admit outsiders, there is not reason why Mr. Ford should not aspire to membership therein, but he would be signally out of place in the American senate so long as that body is dominated by men who zealously believe in the American ideal and faithfully endeavor to serve the American people."

WEEKS GETS FORD'S NUMBER

The value of second thought and plenty of discussion has seldom been so strongly proven as in the case of Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals. The effective Ford propaganda that accompanied the submission last July of the original proposal spoke only of the tremendous advantage to the farmer of having the plant in operation for the production of nitrate, the return of some millions of dollars to the federal treasury for an idle property and the big development of the south that would be certain to follow the acceptance of the offer. Only the beauties of the scheme were laid before the people and Ford was hailed as a public benefactor.

But Secretary Weeks took his time to investigate the proposition. He personally visited the project and has had his own engineers make surveys and estimates. The result has been that facts have been uncovered that appear to show Mr. Ford up in the light of an applicant for huge properties worth many millions more than he offers to pay for them. Instead of nitrates being the principal object of the plant, it is revealed that only about one-seventh of the power generated by the dams and power houses will be used for that purpose and the other six-sevenths will be sold by Mr. Ford for profit or used by him in the manufacture of something else.' When the congressional committee makes its report, public debates on the floors of the two houses will further advertise the truth to the people. In the end Mr. Ford is more likely to lose than gain in public esteem.

MAYBE RUNNYMEDE WILL HAVE CANDIDATE

A mass meeting was called for last night at the Runnymede school to decide whether or not to put up a candidate for trustee of the Sequoia Union high school district. All the people of the chicken colony were asked to be present to secure a full and free discussion of the question.

Are You Interested in Redwood City?

Do You Want to See This City Go Ahead? Does It Mean Anything to You?

We have been talking for years about industrial activity. Does talk count? Are you willing to back up talk with dollars—even though the dollars are few and the confidence big?

Let's Not Mince Words

If we offered you eight lots 50x100 each close in town for $275 for the whole and would advance you $137 to help buy them you wouldn't hesitate very long, would you? There are eight lots 50x100 in an acre of land and we are offering it for $275 an acre.

Read Over this Proposition

The Sweeney Pescia property consists of 145 acres.

It starts on the east side of Chestnut street, just block north of Stambaugh.

On the north side of the property is a dedicated road which runs through the Sweeney ranch.

It is as sweet a piece of industrial property as has been offered in the realty market for years.

It has sidewalk, curb and railroad.

Chestnut street is paved.

A road on the south side would give three frontages.

A spur through the center would divide nicely for industrial sites.

We Want to do This For Redwood City

Form an industrial corporation. It doesn't matter what its name might be. We don't care. That's up to you. We would suggest that the stock be subscribed at the rate of $100 a share. We will loan money on this stock. If you subscribe $100 and have only $50, you can borrow the other $50 on your stock.

Do You Realize That

400 persons with $100 each can swing this deal and assure Redwood City of concrete opportunities. Ten per cent of Redwood City's population can put this over and make money for themselves and their neighbors. Payrolls mean dividends. A subscription of $275 means an acre of this highly desirable industrial property. Do you realize that?

Does that sound like a fair proposition? Select your own board of directors and tell the board members what you want them to do. You control the situation absolutely.

Booklet to be Prepared

A booklet is now under preparation in which Redwood City will advertise to the world that she has good industrial sites at fair prices to offer. Two or three good robust payrolls would mean a good deal to Redwood City right now. We must go after payrolls just like we go after business.

Here are a few of those who have faith in the scheme. Look them over and see if the names mean anything to you: George Ross, L. P. Behrens, H. W. Schaberg, Mrs. Sweeney Pescia, C. G. Lambert, Dave L. Walter, F. K. Towne, A. J. Fromm, Dr. J. L. Ross, W. H. Lown, Guy E. Clifton, W. J. Dusel, George A. Merrill, A. Hynding, D. P. Flynn, Miss E. Gales, T. C. Rice, E. J. Arkush, E. Dawson, D. W. Williams, W. P. Gray, C. M. Doxsee, C. H. Merrill, W. H. Pfaffiin, A. D. Walsh, M. E. Ryan, C. G. Grandi. The amount pledged by these people aggregates $20,000.

A Community Proposition

We want everyone to be interested—the more the better. We would rather have 400 people with $100 each than 40 with $1,000 each.

If you are interested in helping yourself and helping your town, telephone to Lambert & Walter, Redwood 70. A representative will call upon you, answer all your questions and explain in detail.

There's No Excuse About Time

If you are really interested—if you really mean business—if you have the good of Redwood City in your heart, be at the office of Lambert & Walter Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and we will have automobiles to show you the property and explain in detail the proposition.

Last and Final Word

Don't forget that the city's best business men have investigated this proposition and that they have not only recommended it to you, but they have backed their judgment with their own dollars.

Sunday the Last Day

San Francisco capitalists want this land. They have already made an offer on it. If you want to save this wonderful opportunity for Redwood City, Sunday is the last day upon which you can act.

Dan Daley's Sandhill Crane

By CLAUDE FOX

Story No. 47

Twenty-two years have slipped by on the wings of time since Dan Daley passed away up at his home on Heller street, but all of the old boys, whether they belong to the duck hunting fraternity or not, remember him well. Dan was the son of Mrs. Katherine Daley of this city, mother of Mrs. James P. Coleman, Kate Redmond, John and Ibby Daley, and a woman who can well be classed as one of Redwood City's pioneer citizens, for here it was her children grew to manhood and womanhood.

Dan was a small, quick, active little fellow who played shortstop for the old Bay View baseball club. He could run like a jackrabbit and when he reached first base it was a two to one bet that he would make the circuit. In fact the late John P. Cullen and Dan Daley were about as wide awake a pair of ball tossers as the peninsula could boast of and many a game was won through the daredevil base running of one or the other.

Now Dan was one of the lads of his time who was affected with "duckitis" and many a bird he had knocked over in the creeks and the marshes after he had acquired a shotgun, and he had a penchant for haunting the grain fields in quest of the honker and the speckle breasted brant. It was on one of these expeditions that Dan became the hero of all the nimrods by bagging a sandhill crane, one of the most wary of game birds, and a delicacy which far exceeds the edibility of our favorite Thanksgiving gobbler.

The sandhill crane is a bird which many of the duck hunting boys of today have never seen and in all probability will not see in this vicinity any more. They are about one-third larger than the ordinary blue crane of the marsh, are strictly a grain feeding bird, fly in flocks at times of several hundred, are exceedingly wary and difficult to get within gun shot. While flying they utter a guttural call which might be compared to the prolonged croak of a frog. They are of a slate color and while feeding at a distance resemble a flock of sheep. In the early days when the farmers' acres were planted in wheat and barley the sandhill was a regular visitor to these parts, but I have not seen or heard of one for almost twenty years. Before alighting in a grain field they would circle high overhead, uttering their peculiar call and carefully scrutinizing every foot of ground before coming down. Seldom were they killed, but occasionally a lucky hunter landed one of the grand birds, but so seldom that the sandhill was practically looked upon as a curiosity. After a flock had settled down in any of the fields east of the first fence, it was customary for four or five hunters to scatter out along one of the cross fences and then send some one up and around the birds to scare them out. In leaving the field they would not attain any considerable height before reaching the cross fence and if a person was fortunate enough to be on the line of flight a fair chance was had of dropping one of the flock.

This was the method pursued by us when Dan carried off the honors, but believe me, he had a battle royal before he succeeded in landing that game old sandhill crane.

We had been out in the marsh after ducks and just as we reached the mainland along about 3 o'clock in the afternoon a flock of from 25 to 30 sandhills came out of the northern sky and commenced circling over the field owned by Myles Sweeney between the fourth and fifth fences, adjoining the Flood property, where an Italian by the name of Vianni afterward made a small fortune growing strawberries. There were Dan, Charlie Betzold, Sam Murch and myself in the party and Mike Thompson, who was then a little barefoot boy, was with us as a mascot and all round utility man. The sandhills circled over the field for 15 or 20 minutes, uttering their peculiar call, until they felt satisfied it was safe to alight. As soon as the birds touched the ground a council of war was held and our plans decided on. Mike was selected to go aroud the birds and start them outwar dtoward the marsh; Dan, Sam, Charlie and myself were to string out along the cross fence running down toward the Flood line and we reasoned that if little Mike performed his part well some one along the line of that cross fence was going to get a shot, unless the flock started directly south over the high trees, which was not at all probable. Dan was selected to go down pretty well toward the Flood corner, while Sam and Charlie took care of the center positions and I was to remain at the fourth fence corner. Mike obeyed his instructions to the letter, going back to the third fence and then nearly up to the Sweeney barn to get well around the flock. It was not long before from our respective positions we saw him coming down through the stubble field directly toward the birds, which by this time were becoming uneasy. Strutting about, they would occasionally give one of their strange calls and it was plain that they were scenting danger. We were all very much surprised to see Mike get as close to the birds as he did before they finally took to flight. He was such a little fellow that they evidently thought he was harmless. When they arose they took a straight course for the lower Flood corner where Dan Daley was concealed behind the cross fence. They were scarcely 30 yards high and as we all knew Dan had BB shot in his gun we waited breathlessly to see one of the birds tumble. We were not disappointed. As the flock reached the cross fence there came two puffs of black powder and one of the big fellows tumbled headlong to the ground with a broken wing.

Then the real fun began. Dan Daley and in fact all of us learned a lesson that day. Before that sandhill was finished we knew something of the gameness of the grand birds, of their sprinting ability and fighting qualities. As I have said before, Dan was some runner, but he made a bad mistake when he concluded that his ability in that respect was all that was necessary to take a sandhill into camp when he was brought down out of the air. He certainly got the surprise of his life and the rest of us learned considerable. As the bird struck the ground all was excitement, especially with Dan. In fact it was an event of considerable importance with the hunting fraternity. Byron Underwood had killed the last sandhill some five years before and the feat which Dan had accomplished caused people to sit up and take notice. Setting his gun down he leaped over the fence. That was a mistake which it was 10 to 1 Dan would never make again, but he did so this time. The crane had wabbled off sideways and landed probably 75 or 80 yards from the cross fence and was standing erect with the broken wing hanging by his side. It would have been a very easy matter to have shot the bird over again, but that thought never entered Dan's head. Out he ran as fast as he could toward Mr. Crane, and when that old sandhill saw him it started up the field at a clip that would make a hundred yard 10second man blush with shame. How that old bird could run! Dan realized too late that he should have hung on to his gun and every second the old bird putting distance between that shotgun and itself. Up the field with Dan in pursuit and the rest of us interested spectators, they ran. He chased that old crane the full length of the field and the bird was just as fresh as though it had been out for a stroll. Dan was about all in. Finally he got the bird headed toward the corner of the fences and then he hoped to accomplish his purpose, but he was then worse off than ever, for the crane with back to the fence struck at the lad with that sharp beak and fought so hard that Dan could not get near it. Finally Dan had an inspiration. Seeing a loose board lying near the fence he figured that he could hit the bird over the head and knock it down, but when he went for the board the wise old crane left the corner and started down the field again at a three minute clip. Dan was getting desperate and he sent out a S. O. S. call for help. Charlie Betzold was nearest the bird as it came down the field and shot it again just as Dan was about ready to drop.

The years have sped swiftly since that day and all those who were with me on that occasion have passed on into eternity. In all human probability I shall never again see a sandhill crane, but I never hear them spoken of without memory rushing backward and it is not a difficult matter to draw a mental pitcure of Dan Daley and his sandhill crane fairly sailing up and down that field over a quarter of a century ago.

SANITARY DISTRICTS CAURSE TROUBLE IN COURT

Judge Buck on Monday held that the proceedings of the supervisors in calling an election for the formation of the Fair Oaks sanitary district were irregular. The election was to have taken place on Tuesday, March 7. Disregarding the order of Judge Buck in calling off the election, John Goertzhain, Emma Werder and Laura May Harden opened the polls at the office of the Redwood City Nursery. An order to show cause was secured by the attorneys for the petitioners from Judge Buck. Undersheriff Lampkin arrested the three election officers and brought them into court. After a severe castigation by the court the three were fined $50 each, which they paid and went their way wiser but with their pocketbooks lighter. The date of the election of the Washington sanitary district is set for April 1.

No. 5 dominant features of California's largest bank. Number Five of a series.

"Flexibility" of a statewide banking organization

Because of its state-wideness—its forty-five banking offices in localities enjoying a variety of business activities with varying seasonal increases and decreases in deposits and demands for loans—the Bank of Italy is a most "flexible" financial institution.

That is to say, because of the strategic maintenance of a State-wide branch banking system, its funds constantly flow in from one or more localities and are thus available for use wherever needed to meet seasonal requirements.

In other words, the bank's funds are active and "working" all the time.
